The Government of Chile, the Inter-American Development Bank, and Clyc.me developed a platform to centralize information about Chilean initiatives that help mitigate COVID-19 and facilitate their fundraising efforts. The initiative emerged as part of a collaborative network to promote coordinated emergency responses to overcome the challenges associated to COVID-19 social and economic impacts. The network connects organizations from the private and public sectors with communities, help with disaster readiness of communities and organizations, and move forward skills and resources to allocate them where needed.
